

A Few Words From The President

We recently welcomed our first tourists of the year to Molossia, on a windy April morning, and in spite of the weather proudly showed off our nation. We love introducing Molossia to curious travelers because we have accomplished so much in the development of our nation and done so many amazing things with the idea of having a nation. Of course tourists are fascinated by such unique things as our cookie-dough based currency and never-ending war with East Germany. But we are equally proud of the little things too, such as our working phone system, solar powered government buildings and even our own measurement system. We continually strive to make our tiny nation functional as well as fun. All of these things come together to make up the fabric of our nation and of course unique. There is much to be proud of here in Molossia and we love to show it off to the world!

Tourist Season Blows In

24 April 2021 XLIV

On Saturday, 24 April 2021 XLIV, the Republic of Molossia was visited by our first tourists of the year. On a very windy day, at about 10:41 AM MST a large group of 22 tourists arrived in Molossia, from such far flung locales as Texas, Utah, California, Kansas, Nebraska and right across the street! After the somewhat smaller tour groups of last year, hampered perhaps by COVID, this group of eager visitors was more average sized, indicating that perhaps life is returning to normal and people are traveling abroad again. Among this group was the august personage of the Duke of Enniskillen, bringing the presence of Irish royalty to our humble land. Our tourists all explored Molossia escorted by His Excellency, The President, The First Lady and Chief Constable Alexis. They took in all the sights of our nation, including Red Square, Norton Park and the Tower of the Winds. The President as usual regaled our visitors with the stories and culture of Molossia, ensuring they had an enjoyable visit. Finally, their curiosity about the world's smallest republic satisfied, our visitors returned to the United States, destined for adventures elsewhere. We are happy as always to have hosted this mighty group of travelers and fans of Molossia in our nation and wish them well on their future pursuits.

Our Big Group Of Visitors.

Molossian Broomball

11 April 2021 XLIV

It's time again for Molossian Broomball, the famous game with no rules! Though honestly we Molossians aren't a real athletic bunch, when the mood strikes us we take up brooms and head out to play broomball. Molossian Broomball isn't like that played up in the Frozen North, none of that sissy messing about on ice stuff for us Molossians! Here, we have brooms, we have a ball and we have a rock strewn dirt patch called the Alphonse Simms Memorial Cosmodrome and Broomball Field (and this year also played by Molossians in New Hampshire, too!). On this dusty sward we valiantly whack that poor ball (or balls) back and forth and spend large amounts of time retrieving them from the surrounding sagebrush. Eventually we tire of this and call it a game. Rules? None actually. If you want to have two teams, three teams, no teams, switch teams (if there are any) mid-game, have goals, have no goals, have sword fights with the brooms - anything goes. But above all the main goal is to have fun!

Ready to Play!

Game On!

This month's birthdays, Molossians Kathy Baugh (5 May) and Cecelia Mercurio (18 May)!

Molossia's weather is always gorgeous, with plenty of sunshine and temperatures year-round of 22° Celsius (72° Fahrenheit). However, our little country is surrounded by the US and they are so close, their awful weather invades frequently! So the weather report reflects both our weather and theirs.

The Last Word With The First Lady

Hello everyone! May is here and it is beautiful outside. The weather is warmer and the flowers are blooming. We've been spending so much time outside, soaking it all in. As more people get vaccinated, the thoughts of summer fun are on my mind! How exciting is the thought of going to the beach or an outdoor concert. It's time to make some fun plans. Yay! Life is getting back to normal! The thought of this is so fantastic to some, while overwhelming to another. Luckily, we will be able to ease into it and step out at our own pace. Here is Molossia, we had quite the crowd for our first tour of the year. People came from all over the United States. People are traveling again! We have plans to visit the President's parents in just a few weeks, as well as a road trip across Nevada's desert land. It's great to get out and explore, even if it's just in your own backyard.

Thank you all and until next time..

When wandering, let your heart be your guide.

~Adrienne
